BRAINERD, May 23, 1904.
To our comrades and friends:
Our cause is so well known to you that whether we send out an appeal or not, we feel sure of receiving some substantial tokens of remembrance, as well as sympathy in our self-appointed task of caring for those (and some we know them not) whose graves are in some cases marked by a stone, while others have none. The question has been raised by some this year, why do you appeal for aid, if the citizens of this country are so satisfied that their annual "festivals of our dead" be passed by with no sign from any except the keeper of their cemeteries, why should we try to do more than to march out to the cemetery and go through our ritual exercises with only our little band. Our conclusion is that it is important to teach patriotism in the public schools throughout the country in general, it is important at this time that these yearly Decoration Days shall be made "object lessons in patriotism." The flowers for this occasion we will expect them to be brought to us. Wild flowers will do for most of them, to be left at I. O. O. F. Hall the morning of the 29th inst.

This afternoon she boarded the train at Brainerd, expecting the girls to join her. They failed to come and she left the train and went back for the girls. The girls are named Augusta and Stella, 18 years, and Stella aged 16 years. One has been in Brainerd about seven months, and the other three months. Albert Ziewertowski and family live about ten miles from Little Falls, in the town of Swan River, having moved there from Winona over two years ago. The father was at the depot here to-day to meet his wife and daughters, but received word that they would be down in the morning. They do not desire to return home, but the mother thinks she can induce them to. The girls were formerly employed as domestics in Little Falls.—Transcript.

The girls and their mother returned to Little Falls on Wednesday night.

Proclamation.
The thirtieth day of May having been made a legal holiday and designated as Memorial Day, the day on which all loyal and patriotic citizens surrender their various pursuits of life and business to commemorate the noble deeds of fallen heroes, and pay just tribute to their memory.
I therefore order the offices of the several municipal departments closed and the officers and employees of the city to participate in the exercises of the day.
I also request that all citizens take part in the exercises arranged by the G. A. R. and that all stores and places of business be closed in the morning until 10 o'clock, and between the hours of 1 and 5 in the afternoon.
A compliance with this proclamation is earnestly desired as a respect and duty we owe the gray haired veterans who constitute a Roll of Honor that knew no fear on battlefields.
WERNER HEMMERT, Mayor.

The Brainerd & N. M. Extension. The Minnesota Logging Company and the Brainerd & Northern Minnesota Railway Company, composed of the syndicate of Minneapolis lumbermen, have opened up offices in the Lumber Exchange and are preparing for the operation of one of the largest enterprises of which this city can boast, says the Minneapolis Journal of Wednesday. President E. P. Welles was seen in his office this morning. He stated that the principal work of the concern just now is that of pushing the railroad extension through to Leech Lake as rapidly as possible, in order that the company might begin making logging contracts. Said Mr. Welles: "Of course the company can do little actual business until the railroad is finished, and to this end we are exerting all our energies. Our engineer, F. W. Kimball, formerly chief engineer of the Milwaukee road, is pushing the work hard, and has a staff of about 35 or 40 assistants. We are morally certain that the extension of the logging railroad will be completed to Leech Lake some time during the early fall. This however, will not interfere with our making logging contracts before that time, and we expect to have closed several large contracts before September.

"Work will begin just as soon as the road is completed and will continue through the winter. We expect to run branch lines into such districts as will warrant it, and the season of the year will not effect us one way or the other. We expect to handle the logs all winter, and will dump them on the ice at Brainerd, where they will be taken care of by the boom company. We do not expect to limit the use of the road to our own interests, but the line will be somewhat of a common carrier, and we will make regular rates to other interests in that section."
The offices of the syndicate comprise a handsome suite of rooms in the west corner of the fourth floor of the Lumber Exchange, where Mr. Welles is to be found. The detail work and book-keeping of the concern is in care of Charles H. Smith.

Bicycle Notes.
A number of the bicycle club took a run to Long Lake Sunday morning. Geo. Brown met with a mishap Monday which he does not care to repeat. In coming down Sixth street and in front of Sundberg's jewelry store he collided with a dog and for a few seconds the air was full of bicycles, dogs and stars. George being the only person who saw the latter. With the exception of a broken handlebar no serious damage resulted.
The track that has been built around the city park by the bicycle club is indeed a great improvement and adds much to the beauty and attractiveness of that location. The city park hereafter will be patronized by many of our people. Another improvement will be the fixing in proper shape of the speakers stand which has been a disgrace to the park for some years. The council will see that it is completed in time for the Memorial day.

A girl cyclist says that she has no trouble in keeping her dress down, and the way she has guard against flopping dress skirt is as follows according to an exchange: She made a pair of stirrups of black elastic, and fastened them to a short piece of black tape, which had a button hole worked lengthwise in the other end. On the hem of the skirt on each side, and two or three inches from the bottom, she sewed buttons, to which she buttoned the stirrups. They can thus be removed when she is not riding. She slips her foot through the stirrups when riding, and that holds her dress as smooth and comfortable as though she were in a rocking chair.

We were told in New York that immediately upon our arrival a special train took us to Paris in four hours. In the studio in which I am working there is a "Notice" in eleven different languages which reads, in a English:
"Notice.—All new students are requested to set up the best of their feet. As I only began work today I have not yet complied with the rule but suppose I must or ride a rail."

Shem, Ham and Japhet.
Whatever one may believe in regard to the Biblical account of the estimate placed by Noah upon the merits and capabilities of his three sons, Shem, Ham and Japhet, there can be no doubt that there is a wide difference between the Semite people and descendants of Japhet, as to the direction of their mental activity. Religions and philosophies have had their origin in the East, indicating that the Semite mind concerns itself more with philosophical reflection and speculation than with the improvement of earthly surroundings. The Teutonic nations, on the other hand, though for ages behind their Oriental brethren in philosophy have always been intensely practical. "What revelation will this bear to us now?" "How will it effect our present condition?" have been the two supreme questions. Consequently we find the Teutonic peoples the pioneers in discovery, in the mechanic arts, and as we might expect, the inventors of the steamship, the railroad, and the practical improvements which develop modern civilizations. No country is more thoroughly practical than our own, and here it is that we find the greatest and best equipped railroads of the world. The executive committee of Pap. Thomas Post has issued the following: Brainerd, May 23, 1894.

To our comrades and friends:

Our cause is so well known to you that whether we send out our appeal or not, we feel sure of receiving some substantial tokens of remembrance, as well as sympathy in our self-appointed task of caring for those (and some we know them not) whose graves are in some cases marked by a stone, while others have none. The question has been raised by some this year, why do you appeal for aid, if the citizens of this country are satisfied that those annual "festivals of our dead" be passed by with no sign from any except the keeper of their cemeteries, why should we try to do more than to march out to the cemetery and go through our ritual exercises with only our little band. Our conclusion is that if it is important to teach patriotism in the public schools throughout the country in general, it is important at this time that these yearly Decoration Days shall be made "object lessons in patriotism." The flowers for this occasion we will expect them to be donated to us. Wild flowers do for most of them, to be left at J. O. F. Hall the morning of the 29th inst.

Proclamation.

The thirtieth day of May having been made a legal holiday and designated as Memorial Day, the day on which all loyal and patriotic citizens surrender their various pursuits of life and business to commemorate the noble deeds of fallen heroes, and pay just tribute to their memory.

I therefore order the offices of the several municipal departments closed and the officers and employees of the city to participate in the exercises of the day.

I also request that all citizens take part in the exercises arranged by the G. A. R. and that all stores and places of business be closed in the morning until 10 o'clock, and between the hours of 1 and 5 in the afternoon.

A compliance with this proclamation is earnestly desired as a respect and duty we owe the gray haired veterans who constitute a Roll of Honor that knew no fear on battlefields.

The Brainerd & N. M. Extension.

The Minnesota Logging Company and the Brainerd & Northern Minnesota Railway Company, composed of the syndicate of Minneapolis lumbermen, have opened up offices in the Lumber Exchange and are preparing for the operation of one of the largest enterprises of this city can boast, says the Minneapolis Journal of Wednesday. President E. P. Welles was seen in his office this morning. He stated that the principal work of the concern just now is that of pushing the railroad extension through to Leech Lake as rapidly as possible, in order that the company might begin making logging contracts. Said Mr. Welles: "Of course the company can do little actual business until the railroad is finished, and to this end we are exerting all our energies. Our engineer, F. W. Kimball, formerly chief engineer of the Milwaukee road, is pushing the work hard, and has a staff of about 35 or 40 assistants. We are morally certain that the extension of the logging railroad will be completed to Leech Lake some time during the early fall. This however, will not interfere with our making logging contracts before that time, and we expect to have closed several large contracts before September.

"Work will begin just as soon as the road is completed and will continue through the winter. We expect to run branch lines into such districts as will warrant it, and the season of the year will not effect us one way or the other. We expect to handle the logs all winter, and will dump them on the ice at Brainerd, where they will be taken care of by the boom company. We do not expect to limit the use of the road to our own interests, but the line will be somewhat of a common carrier, and we will make regular rates to other interests in that section."
